N.Y. Judge to Hold Kickbacks Term

Temporary Chief Likely to Come From Dept.

Must Ask Council on Outsider

Selection Is Due May 15 or Before

Appointment of a police chief to succeed Chief Raymond VanBuren, is expected to be made soon, probably on a temporary basis with the Board of Police Commissioners making its selection from present department personnel, it was learned yesterday.

A reliable source indicated sentiment toward appointing a department member to the post. The man selected would serve on a temporary basis, at least until Chief VanBuren's retirement May 31, and probably for some time after that.

Law Changes Needed

Local legislation would be necessary to comply with provisions of the City Charter and The Public Officers Law if the police board decides to name a non-resident or non-department police chief.

Mayor Edwin F. Radel indicated last month that he is in favor of naming a department man.

Murphy in Charge Now

Chief VanBuren's vacation started Friday and Deputy Chief Robert F. Murphy is in charge of the department. The deputy chief, who has been on night duty, began his day schedule yesterday.

The police board's regular May meeting is due on the 15th, and a new chief is expected to be named then, if not before that date in a special session.

Applications from out of the city for appointment as chief included one by Police Chief A. K. Button, of Waverly, who several years ago was a member of the state police force. Another was from a man of rank in New York City's detective department.

Can Call Van Buren

Mayor Radel said last month that insofar as he was concerned, the fact that the board will be asked to consider several applications from men outside the police department, does not preclude the possibility of the selection of a candidate from present department personnel.

The mayor indicated yesterday that although Chief VanBuren is on vacation he is still subject to be called if he is urgently needed at any time until his retirement May 31. The chief's retirement will come after 37 years of service in the department.

Blast Kills 10

Not much to get excited about though. Students use the bodies in classroom work.

Pflimlin Will Try To Form French Rule

PARIS (AP)—Pierre Pflimlin will accept President Rene Coty's request to try to form the 25th postwar government, reliable sources said today. He will go before the French Parliament for approval Tuesday.

Pflimlin is expected to give his formal response to the president tonight or Sunday. His own Catholic Popular Republican Movement decided 45-2 today to back him fully.

Pflimlin sought National Assembly support for an Algerian policy roughly the same as that of the government which fell 25 days ago over Algeria.

Scott Enters Innocent Plea

Bruhn Assigns Counsel To Slayer of Youth, 8

William Scott, 76-year-old Brimstone Hill, Town of Wawarsing farmer, was assigned counsel Friday afternoon in a short session of County Court before County Judge Louis G. Bruhn.

Harry Gold of Kingston and James J. Murray of Ellenville, were appointed by Judge Bruhn to defend the aged man who stands charged with murder, first degree, for the April 18 shooting of his grand-nephew, Joseph Kowaski, age 8.

Remanded to Jail

A plea of innocent has been entered and counsel asked for 20 days to move to the indictment and also that they be given a copy of the indictment.

Scott was remanded to jail following his appearance in court at the counsel assignment session.

The Kowaski boy was found shot in the back in a clump of woods a quarter of a mile from his home on April 18. Scott was arrested and charged with the shooting. After his arrest he admitted the shooting, said the boy had "annoyed" him and he had enticed him to the wooded area after the boy had alighted from a school bus and then shot him.

Admits Previous Case

Scott also told the officers he was the same person who, with his wife, had been sent to prison in 1915 for abandoning their infant child, later found starving in a wooded area. Scott said they had abandoned the baby while they visited his father in Circleville. The baby had been left in the woods near Walker Valley because he did not want his father to know about the birth of the child. The child died later from starvation and exposure.

Both Scott and his wife entered pleas of guilty to the crime and served prison sentences.

A check of Scott's story disclosed that his story of the happenings of 40 years ago was true and District Attorney Howard C. St. John ordered a mental examination of the defendant to ascertain whether he was mentally competent to stand trial.

Plans to have him sent to Middletown State Hospital for a 60-day period for mental observations and tests were made. However, a new rule at the State Hospital prevented Scott being taken to the hospital where there are no facilities for

Exit 20 Controversy

Greene Resorts Score Publicity On Thruway Exit

The week-long controversy over Greene County resort publicity in metropolitan newspapers suggesting that tourists use convenient Exit 20 on the Thruway at Saugerties (Ulster County), continued this week.

Greene County's exit 21 is north of Catskill near Leeds.

File Protests

Catskill Chamber of Commerce members and businessmen again filed vigorous protests to additional county advertising appearing in New York City newspapers directing prospective tourists and resort patrons to use the Saugerties exit on the Thruway to reach the Greene County Resort areas.

Last week members of Catskill Chamber and resort operators and businessmen located along Route 23 out of Catskill claimed that customers coming to Greene County are sidetracked by the advertisement from Catskill and the business establishments along Route 23 to the west, and are exposed to establishments and resorts along over six miles of Ulster County.

It was pointed out that the advertisement was made possible in whole or in part by the appropriation of $4,500 by Greene County Board of Supervisors for publicity purposes.

Cite Main Issues

The main issues of the objections were the prominent advertising of Thruway Exit 20 in Ulster County at Saugerties, and the prominence of type used for Cairo in an advertisement placed in last Sunday's issue of a metropolitan newspaper.

The major emphasis on Cairo

GOP Leaders Working To Avoid Floor Fight

Wide Open Race for Governor May Be Decided Before Rochester Convention

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—The Republicans' wide open race for governor may be all over before the convention shouting starts.

GOP leaders indicated Friday they were working to avoid a floor fight over the nomination at Rochester next August.

View of Morhouse

As State Chairman L. Judson Morhouse put it:

"Floor fights are all right in the sense that they attract the public's interest. But it's important not to have wounds and scars that will be left open."

Morhouse told reporters after a meeting of the party's powerful executive committee that this 34-member unit would have a lot to say about the candidate for governor and other spots on the state ticket.

He said the committee would meet at or before the convention to weigh information about the various candidates and to make recommendations to the convention.

May Influence Delegates

"Their recommendations undoubtedly will influence the delegates," he said.

To help the committee in its deliberations, a confidential poll will be made of the popularity of prospective GOP candidates for governor.

Morhouse said the poll would be begun in about two weeks. He would not say whose names would be used.

Seven Mentioned

Among those prominently mentioned are Leonard W. Hall, former national chairman; philanthropist Nelson W. Rockefeller; Walter J. Mahoney, State Senate majority leader; Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck; and Rep. Kenneth B. Keating of Rochester.

Herbert Brownell, former U. S. attorney general and U. S. Sen. Jacob K. Javits also have been mentioned. But they say they are not interested.

None of the prospective candidates has tossed his hat into the ring.

Plan Fund Raising

The Republican nominee will run against Gov. Harriman, who is seeking a second term.

Morhouse said the executive committee devoted most of its three-hour session to planning fund-raising activities including the $100-a-plate dinner in New York June 5.

This year, he said, the members of the executive committee, instead of the GOP county chairman, will be seated at the dais.

He said this was because the committee "will come into a greater degree of prominence" by virtue of the role it can play at the convention.

While Morhouse talked about committee "recommendations," he would not say whether the unit

More Jobs, Ike Plan Are Urged

Economy, Defense Moves Essential

One of two resolutions passed by the Executive Committee of the Republican State Committee favored immediate start of needed public works to curb unemployment in New York State and the other urged active support of President Eisenhower's defense reorganization program for more military flexibility to deter aggression.

Action of the Executive Committee came Friday at a meeting in New York City of the Republican State Committee for outlining procedures to follow in preparation for the November election.

On Work and Defense

The resolution on employment asks that "the Governor of New York undertake immediately, in every county, those additional highway and other public works projects that can be inaugurated with a mimium of preliminaries in order to create employment in the summer weeks just ahead."

The one on re-organization of the defense program calls upon the state's two senators and 43 representatives in the House—Republican and Democrat—to support the President's program.

400,000 Need Jobs

There are 400,00 residents of New York State temporarily idled through no fault of their own, the GOP committee pointed out, although in the nation more than 62,900,000 are at work—more than during the Korean War. Increased activity in public works, on needed projects, represents the most practical way to provide more jobs soonest, it was stressed.

Governor Harriman has mishandeld planning and actual acceleration of the state's highway building program by preparing only now to award millions of dollars worth of highway building contracts—in June, July and August, it was charged. Such action should have been undertaken last fall and winter

Heppner Called Poor

The condition of Ernest M. Heppner of 35 Crane Street, vice-chairman of the New York State Bridge Authority, who underwent an emergency operation at Kingston Hospital Wednesday, was described as "poor" today by hospital authorities. There was reported to be some improvement in his condition, however. A salesman for the Canfield Cupply Co., 25 Dederick Street, Heppner was appointed to the bridge authority in April, 1955. He was first elected vice-chairman in 1957 and was reelected to that post this year.

Area Picketing Continues

Some Projects May Be Resumed Here Monday

Work on one or more construction jobs in the Kingston area may resume Monday morning as the result of agreements between local unions and contractors, The Freeman learned unofficially today.

Just what these jobs are could not be ascertained but an informed source told The Freeman that one of them was a "substantial job in the Kingston area."

Negotiations Go On

A number of construction operations in the area were still being picketed today. Picketing on all but one or two were expected to continue next week as negotiations continue between unions and contractors.

A week-old stoppage by 90 members of the Painters Local 255 over a contract renewal dispute ended harmoniously on Thursday but impasses in other area labor agreements remained unresolved.

Picketing in the area is being handled by members of Local 17, Laborers and Hod Carriers following a breakdown of negotiations with the Ulster county General Contractors Association. All trades were reported to be respecting the picket lines.

Big Jobs Affected

Picketing has halted work at the IBM Laboratory, Benedictine Hospital, New York Telephone Company building on Broadway, Temple Emanuel on Albany Avenue, New Paltz Teachers College and several large school jobs.

It has been reported that jobs in adjacent counties may also be picketed.

Other meetings are expected between unions and contractors in an attempt to iron out differences. Bricklayers and masons have been working without a contract since April 1 pending a solution of their differences.

The contractors association, composed of leading Ulster County builders, said in a statement Friday that the present scale for laborers runs from $2.60 to $3.25 per hour and, in addition to that hourly wage, employers contribute 10 cents an hour per man to the welfare fund of the union.

Peace Efforts Made

The contractors said that in an effort to keep labor peace and to keep men employed they had taken every step possible to forestall a strike. In this period of recession it is important to the economy of the community that work on all construction jobs should continue, the statement said.

May Delay Opening

Work Stoppage Halts Saugerties School Ceremony

The cornerstone laying of the new Saugerties Junior-Senior High School scheduled for Wednesday, has been indefinitely postponed due to work stoppages of Local 17, Common Laborers' and Hodcarriers.

Dr. Grant D. Morse, superintendent of Saugerties Central Schools said today that depending on the length of time the stoppage continues, there is a possibility that the new school will not be ready for the scheduled September opening.

Greenberg Named by Harriman

New Grand Jury Is To Hear Evidence

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Gov. Harriman ordered today that an extraordinary term of State Supreme Court be held to investigate charges of official corruption in Ulster County.

The Democratic governor designated Justice Henry Clay Greenberg of New York City to hold the special and trial term, which is to open in Kingston June 2 and continue as long as necessary.

To Draw New Jury

A grand jury will be drawn to serve during the term.

A special prosecutor named by Harriman to probe alleged kickbacks in official highway purchases in the Republican-controlled county had asked the governor to order the extraordinary court term.

The investigator, former State Sen. Bernard Tompkins of Queens, said Friday that minutes of two separate Ulster inquiries contained serious contradictions.

Reuter vs. St. John

He referred to minutes of inquiries conducted by Arthur Reuter, when he was Harriman's investigation commissioner, and by Dist. Atty. Howard C. St. John.

Reuter had reported a "widespread kickback racket" in a number of eastern counties, including Ulster. St. John's minutes were in the form of grand jury reports. Tompkins has asked that the life of the grand jury be extended until the new one can take over.

Cites Public Interest

Harriman said the public interest required him to order the extraordinary term.

He outlined the areas of inquiry thus:

1. Unlawful acts by any public officer or employe committed in the county.
2. Unlawful acts by any person or corporation that affected public moneys, property, records and the elective franchise.
3. Unlawful acts by any former officer of the county or by any agency in trying to influence county officials or employes.
4. Unlawful acts by any corporation whose officers include any present or former county official or employe.
5. Unlawful acts aimed at hindering the inquiry.

Reuter Charges

Reuter has contended that the kickbacks were made by suppliers doing business with public officials and influential politicians. Among his charges was one that Arthur H. Wicks, former Republican State Senate majority leader and one-time acting lieutenant governor, received kickbacks. Reuter also named Conrad Heiselman, a Wicks employe and former Republican mayor of Kingston.

Both men have denied Reuter's allegations.

Harriman 'Surprised'

Gov. Harriman has said he was "surprised as anybody" at Reuter's announcement concerning Wicks.

Complaints of Blast Received by Police

Police received complaints at 4:05 p. m. Friday of a loud blast reportedly felt in three sections of the city.

Reports of the blast were received from two residents on Andrew Street and another on Lindsley Avenue. One resident on Washington Avenue claimed a hook on the garage door was broken by the blast.

The source of the blast was not determined.

U.S. Officials See More Soviet-Yugoslav Troubles

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials look for more trouble between the Soviet Union and Yugoslavia, with the possibility that the Soviets may use economic sanctions against the independent Communist country.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is believed to be toughening his policy toward Yugoslav communism in order to tighten Moscow's control over other Eastern European Communist countries where the Titoist brand of communism is attractive.

One result of the Soviet campaign, which has become apparent this week, is to put the Communist leadership in Poland on a bad spot. The Poles have been trying to assert some independence of Moscow without risking a real break. It is a question now whether the Poles will be able to preserve what they have gained against Soviet pressures.

Officials here generally discount speculation that the Moscow-Belgrade row would seriously affect the Soviet's attitude toward a summit conference with the Western powers. However, some authorities consider it likely that Khrushchev would prefer not to go into a summit meeting when he was having serious difficulties in his satellite territory.

There is virtually no support here for European speculation that Khrushchev's position as pre-

Economic Signposts Keep Gloomy Trend

NEW YORK (AP) — Economic signposts still pointed lower this week.

All was not gloom, however.

Despite the latest rash of pessimistic business reports, the stock market reached new high ground for the year.

Leading producers of oil, steel, shoes and textiles professed to see signs of an upturn in the months ahead.

Also inclined toward cautious optimism were those two citadels of financial conservatism, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and the First National City Bank. Both said the economic downturn seems to be nearing bottom.

Less optimistic were retailers who saw their April sales fall below last year's totals. Sears, Roebuck & Co., said its April business was down 1.2 per cent, J. C. Penney Co. reported a 2.35 per cent dip and W. T. Grant a 6 per cent decline. An exception was Montgomery Ward, with sales up nearly 6 per cent.

Drastic proposals for curing the recession popped up on several fronts.

Biggest splash was created by the anti-recession committee of President Eisenhower's Business Advisory Council, a blue ribbon panel of top businessmen. Its prescription: a voluntary agreement by management and labor to forego wage increases and price boosts for a year.

Behind the proposal for a one-year moratorium on wage and price hikes lay the committee's desire to check the trend toward high living costs. Members said inflation is still the No. 1 economic problem.

Briefly over the business scene: Philco cut salaries of 4,000 executives and white collar employes. . . Bethlehem Steel Corp. restarted two steel-making fur naces at its Lackawanna, N. Y., works. . . Factory employment in the U. S. dropped 271,000 last month and the number of Americans unemployed for 15 weeks or more reached its highest total since 1941 — 1,900,000. . . New car inventories on May 1 totaled 800,000. . . The Hotpoint Co. division of General Electric Co. halted construction of an appliance plant at Elk Grove, Ill. . U. S. exports totaled $1,345,000,000 in March, down 27 per cent from March 1957.

Utica Official Won't Let Press Check City Records

UTICA, N. Y. (AP)—One City Hall barrier was down today in the Utica newspapers' attempts to see city records. There was another still up.

Comptroller Thomas J. Nelson said Friday he would allow reporters for the two newspapers to inspect records he had refused to show them.

He made the announcement after meeting with representatives of the newspapers, The Observer-Dispatch and The Press.

However, City Clerk Anthony DiGeronimo remained adamant. He said he would withhold copies of proposed city ordinances from the newspapers until they changed their policies of reporting municipal affairs.

The newspapers have been publishing stories and editorials about vice and crime in the city. DiGeronimo claims the papers have a "current policy. . .to distort and maliciously slant news" of city government.

To this, Executive Editor Mason C. Taylor replied:

"Obviously, Mr. DiGeronimo and his Machiavellian associates don't like the news their acts are producing. So he would now seek to gag the press."

Thursday, DiGeronimo refused to allow reporters to study more than 30 ordinances introduced at

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

LOURDES, FRANCE—This is a brancardier, an attendant of the sick. His name is Marc Bally, an engineer from Rhone. He is one of the many men and women who, at their own expense, spend part of each year in selfless service at this world famous shrine. They meet the ambulance trains, transport and bathe the sick. Their active faith unites in prayer with the passive faith of the suppliants.

"I have seen four miracles during my 20 years here," says Monsieur Bally. Now 78, he still finds his annual two-month period of service a refreshing and rewarding experience. "At home," he confides with a sparkle in his eye, "I am always tired. Here I am carefree and young."

Your Life And Mine

By CLYDE HERBERT SNELL

A MOTHER'S HEART

A young mother took her small son on a Sunday School picnic. In the excitement of watching his first three-legged race she lost him. She had just begun an anxious search for him when, loud and clear above all the other talk, shouts and laughter, came the sound of a desperate young voice crying, "Jessie! Jessie!" When she finally got to his side and had him calmed down, she asked him why he called her "Jessie" when he always called her "Mother" at home. The tyke looked at her with a justifiable disdain and replied: "It was no use to call 'Mother' because the place is full of mothers."

There was one thing this little fellow knew for sure: in a place that was full of mothers there was only one that would fill the bill. A whole flock of mothers is of little comfort to a child in distress. It isn't that they lack the mother technique. Their technique may be of the finest—wrought out of a woman's experience in caring for her own brood. When a youngster loses his mother he doesn't go through the crowd searching for the woman who has the best technique. No child could be convinced, under such circumstances, that anybody's mother would do, just so she knew how to love and console. What he looks for is not perfection of technique. His heart has a preference so strong that to offer the services of a substitute would only add to his distress and his tears. In the providence of God motherhood has no adequate substitute — not even somebody else's mother. A child wants the woman who is his mother. In the blessed relationship which God has established between mother and child there is the stern, relentless demand for just one special person.

But what that little fellow did not realize, as yet, was that he was just as "special" to his mother as she was to him. He thought that with a lot of mothers around his little voice would be just one of many; with nothing to distinguish it from the rest. He was way off the beam there. A mother sheep can pick out her very own lamb—no matter how large the flock may be. A mother can detect the voice of her child above all the others. The most sensitive ears God ever bestows are given to mothers. They listen with their hearts. The writer of the most beautiful literature on love reminds us that "love never faileth." (I Cor. 13) One part of the "never-failing-ness" of love is in the fact that it can always recognize its own. Love is not easily fooled. It does not lose its perspective of special caring in the general shuffle. A mother's ears can detect overtones of identification when all the other ears hear is a mass of cries. Heaven never takes more careful pains with anything it creates than it does when it is fashioning the heart of a mother.

Jean Francois Millet, the noted artist, said: "When I paint a mother I try to render her beautiful by the mere look she gives her child." If you have seen a mother look at her child you have been privileged to gaze upon earth's most beautiful sight—and have also had a little glimpse of heaven tossed in for good measure.

Action Requested To Help Bills for HumaneSlaughter

People interested in legislation to promote humane slaughter of livestock have until May 21 to communicate with members of the Senate Committee on Agriculture and Forestry, who will decide on that date whether to submit two bills to the full Senate body or defeat them in committee.

This has been announced by the Society for Animal Protective Legislation which has the right now to rebuttal on the companion humane slaughter bills, S1497 and HR8308, formerly denied to supporters of the measure.

The society said today there has been a reversal of "the unfair decision of April 22 denying the right of rebuttal to supporters of the bills."

It is the desire of the society that all who wish favorable action on the humane slaughter bills write or wire these members of the committee at the Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C.:

Senators Allen J. Ellender, chairman; Olin D. Johnston, Spessard L. Holland, James O. Eastland, Hubert H. Humphrey, Stuart Symington, W. Kerr Scott, Herman E. Talmadge, George D. Aiken, Wilton R. Young, Edward J. Thye, Bourke B. Hickenlooper, Karl E. Mundt, John J. Williams and Andrew F. Schoeppel.

The Statue of Liberty was designed and constructed by the French sculptor, Frederic Bartholdi.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MAY 10, 1958

NIXON'S POSITION

No one who knows President Eisenhower's cast of mind has ever really expected that he will at any time come out with a personal endorsement of Vice President Nixon for the presidency in 1960.

If Nixon's strength as a GOP candidate were founded on hope of such an endorsement, it might be questionable.

His advantage certainly stems from his link with Mr. Eisenhower, and all that means in prestige, position and publicity. But at this stage it does not seem necessary that the bond between the two shall be air-tight.

Nixon is already firmly entrenched in many professional GOP minds as the outstanding party prospect for 1960. Large numbers of them find his views generally acceptable, and they believe his position gives him a platform from which he can command attention that no other can match.

Furthermore, though there is still considerable talk among conservative Republicans of Senator Knowland, the latter seems inclined to delay his bid until 1964. And there are no other faces showing prominently.

In the light of this situation, an actual personal pat from the President is probably not required to keep Nixon's candidacy uppermost. Nor is it vital that the vice president hew closely to the presidential line on issues.

Admittedly, however, he has a delicate job in deciding just how far and how often he may safely depart from the Eisenhower position. To do so at carefully selected times and places may in fact enhance his 1960 stature. To make the gap too wide might be to set up conflicts and tensions that could seriously impair Nixon's standing.

Even if Mr. Eisenhower should lose much of his popularity, Nixon could not easily detach himself from such links as he has. He owes the President too much, and has operated too often as an administration spokesman.

But the idea that a sharp decline in the President's popularity would imperil Nixon's 1960 chances for the GOP nomination does not necessarily follow.

Any party is inescapably saddled with the defense of its record in office. It cannot publicly acknowledge that the performance of a President bearing its standard is any handicap. Therefore, no alternative to Nixon, even though he might have less identity with Mr. Eisenhower, could avoid responsibility for the President's showing.

Nixon has to do some fancy juggling between now and 1960, no question of that. But while he's juggling, that old spotlight is on him all the way.

Sixty-seven farmers last year received more than $50,000 each for soil bank payments. Further proof that saving—even if it's only soil—is profitable.

The president of the American Dental Association says that the best thing yet devised for preventing tooth decay is that old-fashioned remedy, elbow grease. Yes, but is it mint-flavored?

As summer approaches, we are inclined to think that crab grass must get its name from the way it makes home owners feel.

A MATTER OF FEELING

A little item, hidden away in some newspapers or not reported, carried the information that Khruschev's U. S. ambassador, Mikhail A. Menshikov, was picketed when he appeared on the television program, College News Conference. One of the pickets was a Hungarian mill worker from Youngstown, Ohio, named Ernest Malinits.

When Menshikov left the station in his chauffeur-driven limousine, Malinits shouted after the ambassador in Russian, "You may fool the people here, but not the people you have oppressed!"

Over the air, Menshikov had told the students and the listening American audiences that he didn't feel that the Soviet Union had interfered in the Hungarian revolt of 1956. The question is: Did Menshikov even feel at all?

OLD FASHIONED BANKING

It used to be, when towns were small and neighborhood banks existed, that the banker was a well-known citizen whom everybody respected as an extraordinarily wise person. He knew the character of every person in his community and its environs. He made his loans more on the basis of character than on collateral.

As banks grew larger and branch banking developed, these characteristics of the banker disappeared to a large degree. A branch manager who is promoted from here to there rarely knows his customers at all and certainly the "Big Boys" downtown only know other "Big Boys" who are downtown.

I was reading a pamphlet issued by the "Small Business Service Department" of The Citizens & Southern Banks in Georgia. This bank apparently has revived old banking principles but applies them modernly. It recognizes that a bank does not exist only to accept deposits and to lend money but also to provide advice as to management problems, record keeping, plant and office locations, and in many other ways not usual in big city banks.

The idea behind it is that the small businessman cannot afford to hire experts required to perform many of the tasks which the larger businessman can, but which all modern enterprise requires. Therefore the bank provides the counsel and the expert service needed, the theory being that as businss grows, the bank has an increasing number of prosperous customers and therefore makes money. It is really a system of mutual aid.

From the standpoint of the general welfare of the United States, whatever is done to benefit the small businessman is likely to be beneficial to the country, because if we are to remain a capitalistic republic, it is essential to avoid cartelization and monopoly. The cartel is becoming normal in many European countries, particularly in Great Britain and its economic dependencies. The cartel is becoming usual in Canada. The cartel is a legal method of price-fixing, quality-fixing, quantity limitations, quotas to customers, and other devices which restrict the market, lessen competition and protect those already in an industry from being disturbed by newcomers.

Wherever the cartel exists, the small businessman is at the mercy of those who belong to the cartel. In a manner, we are developing the cartel idea, although not altogether, in the concept of the Primary Contractor for government contracts. The Primary Contractor is generally a large firm with enormous credit, usually through interlocking directorates, which gets a contract to do an important job for the government, particularly in relation to the national defense. The Primary Contractor sublets parts of its contract to a number of small firms, some of which can take no other work and therefore are wholly dependent upon the Primary Contractor. Thus, the terms of all sub-contracts are favorable to the Primary Contractor which also has the public relations value of being able to advertise that it is pro bono publico by dividing its contracts with so many others.

This may be the most efficient way of doing these jobs. It certainly saves the time and energies of generals and admirals who do not need to speak to small businessmen any more than is absolutely necessary for inspection services. On the other hand, it really forces many of the small firms, while giving the appearance of independence, to be, in reality, divisions of the larger firms which get the contracts in the first place and control the finances, particularly as the Government of the United States has become a slow payer.

Thus more and more instruments of production in the United States are coming under centralized control of increasingly small concentrated financial groups. As the Government of the United States becomes the principal or the sole customer of a firm, the element of competition disappears because by no genius of operations can a small firm compete with the larger firms in a particular industry once the Primary Contracts have been let.

Although there has been considerable outcry against these procedures which are stifling small business, no one has yet offered a workable solution for this problem in view of the enormous share of the national economy that goes into defense contracts. Yet a way must be found if the capitalistic system is to prevail; otherwise the socialization of industry through the military is likely to occur in the not too distant future.

Body Needs Gradual Spring Tune Up After Winter Loaf

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

In the spring, when the weather begins to warm up, a great many unwise people who have been indoors all winter doing nothing more than walk down the hall, suddenly take up strenuous exercise.

Their muscles are flabby, their hearts unused to exertion. And the rest of their bodies are equally unprepared for the burden of tennis, climbing, baseball or anything else requiring real physical exertion.

The human body is made for exercise or it would not have been given the muscles and other structures and functions which are used in physical activity.

But—and it is a big but—one cannot safely go from complete physical inactivity to violent exercise without running risks of straining and damaging some part of the body. All amateur and professional athletes know this, and this is the reason they train before engaging in physical competition.

Someone who goes out and does unaccustomed and strenuous exercise does not risk sore and stiff muscles alone.

A more serious possible effect is on the heart, which is itself an almost completely muscular organ. Like any other muscle, the heart grows gradually stronger if it is given some work to do. But like other muscles this should not come all at once. The heart can suffer serious damage from too much exercise at one time when it isn't used to it.

It isn't only too much exercise when one's body is unprepared that should be considered.

Age has a lot to do with the kind and amount which can be taken. Most young men can run the mile without harm if they are in reasonably good condition. Ask a man of 40 to do it and it might kill him.

Besides age there are questions of sex and physical condition.

A girl or woman cannot ordinarily be expected to engage in sports requiring muscular exertion as heavy as that which men can do. In fact, to do so might well harm them.

Naturally the physical condition enters in too, because someone with certain kinds of heart disease, for example, cannot safely engage in strenous sports even after training.

All this points to the fact that exercise is a wholesome, normal activity of the human body. But it should be approached with good sense and adjusted to the needs and physical capacities of each one of us.

Bear these thoughts in mind as you start physical exercise this spring and summer after a long season of inactivity!

Washington News

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Secretary of Interior Fred Seaton opened his last press conference with the frank confession that he had been out every night that week and felt punk.

Glancing at the reporters, he politely insinuated that they didn't look too hot either. Then as chairman of the President's Commission on the Fitness of American Youth, the secretary called attention to the White House proclamation making the week beginning June 1 "American Youth Fitness Week."

"Some of us are beyond recovery," said the secretary. "But a word to the wise should be sufficient."

JOYCE C. HALL of Kansas City, president of the Hallmark greeting card company and the man who persuaded Winston Churchill to permit a collection of his paintings to be exhibited in American cities, is a restless searcher of new art regardless of the prominence of the artist.

When Hall was in town in connection with the opening of the Churchill exhibit here, he heard that Lt. Col. D. Ashari, assistant military attache at the Indonesian embassy, had a basement full of paintings he had done this past year of his native land. Ashari is self-taught and just got interested in painting since he has been in the U. S.

Hall postponed his departure a half-day and got Ashari to let him inspect his paintings. Hall was impressed and told Ashari he would bring his buyer to see the pictures next time he was in town. Hall says he doesn't trust his own judgment on art.

THERE'S BEEN a wholesale turnover of diplomatic personnel here lately. But two of the best-looking gals in the international set, fortunately, have survived all the changes.

One is Mrs. Abba S. Eban, wife of the ambassador from Israel, and the other is the Panamanian ambassador's wife, Mrs. Ricardo M. Arias. Unbiased authority for this judgment of the diplomatic beauty is Carlo Maggi, top embassy photographer in town.

O course there's the gorgeous American wife of the Belgian ambassador, Baron Silvercruys. But the baron appears to have such a firm lock on his job that he's not considered one of the shifting group of diplomats.

IF THE American Physical Society, which just had an annual meeting here, never returns, the town's cab drivers won't complain. A local hackie says:

"The only thing we can figure out is that physicists must be the most underpaid in the world. Out of the hundred or so we hauled around, the biggest tip we got from one of them was a dime. Now, I know what they mean when they say scientists should get more money."

SEN. BARRY GOLDWATER (R.-Ariz.) has several interesting idiosyncrasies including the habit of leaving his wallet at home in the morning. Other day this happened when the senator planned to drive to New York.

"How about lending me 50 cents for the trip?" he asked his administrative assistant, Dean Burch, as he raced out of the office. Burch obligingly flipped him a half dollar as a puzzled visitor in the office looked on.

"How can he make the trip on that much money?" the visitor asked.

"Oh, he practices what he preaches," Burch replied. "He's the frugal type."

OTHER DAY WHEN President Eisenhower opened the Winston Churchill art exhibit here, it was assumed that his presence was kind of a publicity stunt for the event. Actually, Ike went to decide which of Winnie's pictures he was going to select for himself.

He does not have a Churchill painting and Winnie wrote him a note saying that he could take his pick of the 35 being sent around to American cities. Ike doesn't have to make up his mind until just before the collection is returned to England.

They say the President has narrowed his selection down to four. But he's not telling which four of the group they are.

THERE'S A RACE on in the Washington National Press Club for prolific father honors.

Charley Lucey of Scripps-Howard and Jack Morris of the New York Times have each got five boys and four girls. But public relations man Jack Doherty is catching up with them. He's got six boys and two girls plus another heir on the way.

At least two other Press Club members have eight kids. They are attorney Ben Noble and public relations man Bud Litton.

BABSON on BUSINESS

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass., May 9 —It is not my custom to discuss strikes. Now, however, Mr. Reuther's asking that the negotiations be postponed until the tooling time comes truly arouses one's anger. This is a Soviet-type threat. Everyone should rise up against it.

What Labor Seeks

In this year of poor sales and profits in the auto industry, the UAW is boldly asking for a general wage increase equivalent to about 11 cents an hour. It also seeks a considerable broadening of the present pension plan, expanded hospitalization and insurance benefits, as well as more money for skilled workers.

In addition to all these requests, the Union is demanding that the Big Three—General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler—adopt a new type of profit-sharing plan. This seems to me a very poor time to make such an expensive and far-reaching demand, and I predict that the auto makers will refuse to go along with it.

Likelihood of a Strike

Many observers believe that the current negotiations will result in a stalemate and finally in a strike. They contend that automobile industry managements are in a better position to stand firm against the more unreasonable demands of labor than they have been in recent years. I do not share this view about a strike of any length, and here is why:

The UAW treasury has already been hard hit because so many members are working only part time or are not working at all because of plant slowdowns and shutdowns. Only recently the UAW—in order to ease its financial position — was obliged to cut salaries of some employes. Although so far as is known, Mr. Reuther has not yet backed down on any of his 1958 demands, I forecast that in the end it will feel obliged to compromise and a strike should be averted. But if by chance a strike should be called, I believe it will be a short one.

What the Workers May Get

It is interesting to note that the Supplementary Unemployment Benefits plan now in force in the auto industry—and which the Union seeks to expand—was originated by management (Ford) and not by labor. I expect that benefits under this SUB plan will be increased as a result of the present negotiations. Other so-called "fringe" benefits may also be increased, but only fractionally.

Provision for a wage increase of the size asked for by labor now seems impossible. Perhaps management and labor will reach a satisfactory compromise on this issue. Possibly this will take the form of a sliding-scale increase or decrease tied up with sales volume or profits.

Labor-Saving Machinery

In all this discussion of negotiations between management and workers in this vital industry, I am afraid we are losing sight of one important fact: Labor's fortunes are still dependent on supply and demand. In recent years, management has shown more respect for the workingman and his place in our economy. As a result there is usually less wrangling in labor negotiations than was the case years back. But management will not sit idly by forever and make concession after concession to labor, if labor does not do its part by boosting productivity and upgrading quality.

Unwise acts by labor unions tend only to stiffen the attitude of management and to hasten and increase demand for labor-saving devices. Automation will become more universal during the next 10 years. There will be vast changes in our labor situation during the next generation or two, changes calling for a series of adjustments on the part of both management and workers.

What Management Can Do

The agreements finally reached by the UAW and the large auto companies will undoubtedly have an eventual impact on other industries. What can management do to protect itself from the pitfalls that lie ahead? First of all, it must do more than simply give in to labor's every demand.

Management needs more intensive training in labor relations for it will still be quite dependent on labor even when automation becomes more widespread than it is now. If we are to avoid socialism in this country, management must have the capacity to look ahead and lead labor on to mutually better things. Such negotiations, however, must be carried on in a mutually Christian Spirit and without either side using Russian-type threats or sharp maneuvers.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

Every spring I am delighted to see those golden dandelions spring up all over as though they are so happy to see the warm sunshine appear. In the Sunday April 27th Herald Tribune editorial page there is quite an item on the poor dandelion how it is bypassed by poets. He says: "Every spring the dandelion appears as neglected gold and disregarded beauty. It is called a nuisance by those who want uniform green lawns... Who would want to establish a uniform night sky by ridding it of its stars?" I wonder just who sets the laws that one pretty flower is put up in the social ladder as a cultivated flower and the other stays on the other side of the tracks as a wild flower. After all didn't all the flowers start as wild flowers to begin with.

As a little girl I picked bouquets of golden dandelions and brought them home and put them in water. They were easy to pick, easy to find and made a much faster bouquet than the shy little violet with its big green leaves although I like them both. More in defense of the dandelions which the editorial said are cultivated as a drug and some 65 tons are sold in the United States yearly. An acre of dandelions yields about a half a ton of dried roots and are sold for about 19 cents a pound. I have heard about dandelion greens for salads although I do not think I have ever eaten them. I have heard much about dandelion wine and that too I have not tried. I am satisfied with dandelion as a pretty flower, and I think it beautifies a lawn. I think it would make a nice border flower to a green lawn.

Looking through the Kingston Argus of Wednesday March 4, 1889, I see in Accord they were having some post office difficulty. The item reads: "There will soon be a post office established at Newton. The only difficulty they now have is to find a suitable name for the place that the department at Washington will accept. It will be a great accomodation to the people living in that neighborhood, as the carrier for Mettacahonts can come around that way and do the carrying for both offices."

The other day Mr. and Mrs. John F. Coffey showed me a Bible printed in 1813 in which the Diamond family record is written. (Abraham Diamond who was born Oct. 13, 1793.) Details about this Bible will be given in another column. In this 1891 March Kingston Argus there is a St. Remy item which reads: "Thomas Rosekraus has purchased the ice in Diamonds' pond, and is loading it on a barge. The ice is run on an elevated track from the pond to the barge. Four inches were taken off from the top of the ice and there yet remains 12 inches of good ice."

It is interesting to see what folks worked at in those days, over a half a century ago. There is not a word about unemployment in any of these old newspapers that I can find. For instance at "South Woodstock, William Short and Michael Tone are at work opening a new quarry. They expect to find plenty of nice flagging stone. Joseph Irish intends to engage largely in the making of maple sugar this spring. Henry Gardiner intends building a large barn, and is getting out lumber for that purpose." Those were the days before bar-bells, pep pills and such there was too much outdoor work to do and lots of good food, without "artificial this and that."

Norman Reports Farm Ownership Loans Available

Funds are now available for the making of Insured Farm Ownership loans, F. A. Norman, Farmers Home Administration county supervisor, announced today. A lender has been found who will make funds available on a national basis.

Farm Ownership loans are made at 3½ per cent interest plus a 1 per cent insurance charge, with a repayment schedule up to 40 years. Norman said that these loans can be made to tenant farmers for the purchase of a family-type farm. Farm owners may borrow to enlarge a farm to family-size, build needed buildings, repair or improve buildings, or improve their land. Farm owners may also borrow to re-finance their present real estate mortgage and other debts.

Insured loans can be made in amounts up to 90 per cent of the fair and reasonable value of the farm, based on an earning capacity appraisal. A loan to purchase or enlarge a farm cannot be made for more than the average value of efficient, family-type farms in the county. A family-type farm is one that will produce sufficient income to give the operator a reasonable standard of living, pay operating expenses, and debts and have a reasonable reserve for emergencies. It is a farm on which a man and his wife can furnish the management and for which the labor is furnished primarily by the operator and his family.

Norman said that funds are also available for the making of Farm Housing loans to build, atler or repair and improve dwellings and other farm buildings, and to furnish a water supply for farmstead and household use. Farm Housing loans are written at 4 per cent interest and are repayable over periods up to 33 years.

Operating loan funds are also available for the purchase of operating needs such as seed, feed, fertilizer, spray, and the purchase of livestock and machinery. The interest rate is 5 per cent and the repayment period from one to seven years.

To be eligible for a Farmers Home Administration loan, an applicant must be a citizen of the United States, a farm owner or operator, be unable to obtain the funds from local credit sources and have the experience and ability to carry out planned farming operations successfully.

Farmers in Dutchess, Greene, Sullivan and Ulster Counties should make applications at the Farmers Home Administration office, 54 John Street.

Memoriam

In loving memory of my husband and our father, George Williams, who died 4 years ago, May 11.

When a loved one breaths his last farewell
The blow is more than tongue can tell.
Earth seems quite another place
Without the smile of his dear face.
Sleep on, dear one, and take your rest,
For God hath called when He thought best.
Our loss means pain, but yours meant gain.
In Heaven we hope to meet again.

Program Plans Set for Israeli 10th Anniversary

Plans for the forthcoming Kingston celebration of the 10th Anniversary of the State of Israel to be held Monday, May 19, are announced by Benjamin Schecter, chairman. Included in the program will be greetings from the chairman, Mayor Edwin F. Radel and Abraham Streifer, president of the Kingston Jewish Community Council.

An official representation from the Ministerial Association is expected to join with the Jewish clergy in the program at the Congregation Ahavath Israel.

Special music for the occasion will be sung by Mrs. Harold Shorr, accompanied by Cantor Julian Lohre of Temple Emanuel.

Guest speaker for the evening will be the Rev. John Stanley Grauel. The Rev. Mr. Grauel is a noted expert on Middle East affairs and former executive director of the American Christian Palestine Committee in Philadelphia who has championed the growth and development of the State of Israel.

During 1948, the Rev. Mr. Grauel took part in fund-raising activities and the gathering of supplies for Israel. He is a frequent traveler to Israel, Europe and North Africa. He is widely known as an expert on the problems of Israel and the Middle East. He is currently engaged in a speaking tour throughout the United States on behalf of Israel and the United Jewish Appeal.

Ahavath Israel Men to Elect Officers Monday

The annual election of officers of the Men's Club of Congregation Ahavath Israel will be held Monday at 8:30 p. m. in the vestry hall.

The agenda of the meeting will include a discussion of the building planning committee's work. Plans for the future synagogue and the vestry building enlargement will be outlined.

Alfred Horowitz, co-chairman of the planning committee, has requested that all members of the committee attend.

Refreshments will be served following the meeting.

Navy Taking Over Big Missile Site

SURF, Calif (AP)—A new launching site for the nation's mightiest missiles is being taken over by the Navy today.

Formal commissioning ceremonies will turn 20,000 acres of green, rolling foothills near Santa Barbara into the Point Arguello Naval Missile Facility. By the end of next January the Navy hopes to be ready to handle actual launchings.

The new facility is another link in a chain of installations that is making this section of the California coast 150 miles north of Los Angeles one of the nation's most important missile centers.

Unlike Cape Canaveral, Fla., where the emphasis is on research and development, the Pacific Missile Range will deal basically with operational missiles. Its function will be to train men in the use of these weapons.

Village Cleanup

HALLIDAYBORO, Ill. (AP)—Hallidayboro, a pinpoint on the map, starts a spring cleaning campaign today.

The old mining village, now a virtual ghost town about 15 miles north of Carbondale, was founded in 1884 around a rich vein of coal. The coal petered out, the mine went bankrupt in 1927 but the town hung on.

Today's benefit in an abandoned school was planned to raise funds, first to clean up the alleys—all four of them. Anything left over will be used to buy road gravel and garbage barrels.

Everybody—all 100 residents—are behind the big cleanup. Cut off from main lines of transportation, secluded Hallidayboro has weathered the decades like a museum piece.

Midwest Cement Pact Called 'Ridiculous' Area Pattern

A contract settlement this week for cement workers in a La Salle, Ill., plant purportedly designed to set a pattern for the industry, which involves three cement plants in the Hudson Valley area, was termed ridiculous by Audin Straub of Catskill, business representative for District 8, United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers' International Union.

Negotiations for new contracts for production workers at the three Greene County plants in progress since contracts expired May 1 were made public Friday in a statement from Straub.

Scores Settlement

Straub scored what he called, "a sneak settlement," the agreement reached at the La Salle, Ill., plan of Alpha Portland Cement Company which operates a plant at Cementon.

According to Straub, the La Salle settlement provides a pay increase of eight cents per hour, one and one-fifth time for Sunday work, and a pension arrangement. The company, he said, is trying to use this settlement as a pattern in its other plants.

"We feel it's a rediculous settlement," Straub said.

In a statement Friday, Felix Jones of Chicago, international president, said, "The employers uniform position has all the earmarks of the same organized position by the eastern block which led to the national cement strike during the summer of 1957.

"It is becoming increasingly evident that thousands of our members will have to strike in order to avoid having a cheap settlement forced down their throats by one of the most profitable industries in America," he said.

The union is seeking a minimum wage increase of 10 cents an hour plus an additional five cents" to help correct unjustified sectional wage differences," layoff benefits, pension improvements, one and a quarter time for Sunday work, and a union shop where none now exists, Jones declared. Jones said the total of its demands are worth 25 cents an hour.

The La Salle agreement increases pensions to a maximum of $78.75 per month after 30 years service, with a minimum of $33.75 per month on retirement after 15 years. Employes with a minimum of 15 years' service desiring to do so, may retire at age 60 subject to a pension deduction to be computed on a "straight acturial basis," an industry source said.

Provides Pension

The Alpha settlement also provides a pension for widows and provides that employes 45 years or older with 15 years or more service, if permanently separated from employment due to personnel reduction or plant shutdown, at age 65 shall receive a pension based on full credit for years of service.

Contracts expired May 1 at all five Hudson Valley plants at North American, Lehigh and Alpha, in Cementon, and Lone Star and Universal-Atlas in Hudson.

Speaker Cautions Kiwanis Club on Attitude to TB

The idea that tuberculosis is "now a disease that requires no more worrying," was termed false by Dr. Herbert Schwartz, medical director of the Ulster County Tuebrculosis Hospital, speaking before the weekly luncheon of the Kingston Kiwanis Club.

Dr. Schwartz revealed that the death rate from tuberculosis in Ulster County had declined about 60 per cent in recent years, but during the same period the disease itself had only declined 6 per cent.

The reason for the sharp decline in deaths due to tuberculosis was attributed to a "stepped-up program in finding and treating cases of tuberculosis." In contrast to this heartening statement, Dr. Schwartz said that Ulster County was fifth on the list of the number of tuberculosis cases in the State of New York.

The local tuberculosis hospital, located on Golden Hill, "is now operating about 85 per cent of its capacity." This was termed "normal" by Dr. Schwartz, or "operating at peak efficiency." He further revealed that the local hospital "runs at a high level," and patients are usually released in from six to 12 months, where in past years they might have been confined for periods ranging from three years upward.

The speaker also touched on the idea that diagnosis currently in use often revealed other diseases of the lungs and chest —"that chronic lung diseases were prevalent"—and that a recent state law had been enacted which allows tuberculosis hospitals to treat other lung diseases. The local hospital is not treating anything but tuberculosis patients at the present time, said the doctor.

Wedding Slated For Handicapped Kentucky Couple

MOUNT STERLING, Ky. (AP)—Wedding bells ring out in a small country church today for a young, physically handicapped couple whose courtship began in a rehabilitation center.

Bonnie Jean Pflug, born without arms, and William Beucher, 22, paralyzed from the waist down since an auto accident four years ago, planned to exchange vows in the Church of God at nearby Hope at 3:30 p. m.

Seek Employment

Beucher, from Connellsville, Pa. and his 19-year-old bride want to find jobs in this area, near her home at Means in adjoining Menifee County.

Miss Pflug chose a ballerina length white satin gown with long sleeves for her wedding and asked her sister, Mrs. Marvie Austin of Lawrence, Ind., to be her only attendant.

Uncle Best Man

Beucher chose for his best man his uncle, Eugene Buchholz of Connellsville. Buchholz and his wife raised young Beucher after his parents died.

A reception was planned at the church with the young bridal couple to cut a four-tiered cake.

They're planning a wedding trip to visit his relatives in Pennsylvania and hope to find jobs here in about three weeks.

His uncle and aunt, his grandmother, Mrs. Florence Newcomer, and a cousin, Eugene Buchholz Jr., came from Pennsylvania Friday night for the wedding rehearsal.

To Receive Hands

Miss Pflug has been fitted with artificial arms and expects soon to receive hands.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Pflug, who live on a farm at Means, she learned to take dictation at 60 words a minute and to type with her feet after graduating from high school with honors.

She continued her training at Woodrow Wilson Rehabilitation Center at Fisherville, Va., where she met Beucher, in training to repair watches and jewelry.

The talented Miss Pflug is an expert cook, sews, helps with household tasks and is a licensed auto driver, using her feet as the average person uses his hands.

Reports Reflect Work, Building, Sales Improved

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fresh government reports reflect improvement last month in employment, home building and retail sales.

Various federal agencies announced Friday that:

1. Farm employment increased more than usual in late April to come within 1 per cent of the number employed the same time last year.

2. Unemployment among workers covered by jobless insurance dropped by 66,900 during the week ended April 26—the largest decline for any week since July 1957. Forty one states reported reductions.

However, that week's total of 3,265,700 in insured unemployment was more than double that of the corresponding period last year.

3. Housing activity picked up, slightly exceeding April 1957 in the number of new units put under construction.

4. Retail sales increased 2 per cent during the month, with the biggest improvement in durable goods.

Initial Claims Down

The volume of initial claims for jobless benefits, the barometer of new layoffs among insured workers, declined by 19,800 during the week ended May 3 for a total of 403,300, the Labor Department said.

The department said this was the lowest total of new claims in any week this year, but compared with 247,200 for the same week last year.

In its housing report, the Labor Department said a total of 95,000 units were put under construction last month, a little more than in April a year ago.

The Commerce Department said preliminary figures, adjusted for seasonal factors, showed that April sales of all retail stores totaled $16,100,000,000—up 2 per cent from March.

Nixon Is Taking Breather, Going To Soccer Game

QUITO, Ecuador (AP)—Vice President Nixon planned a breather in his South American tour today by going to a soccer game. Police were alerted for a possible demonstration at the stadium.

Nixon received a warm reception from generally friendly residents when he arrived Friday after hostile demonstrations in Peru.

The Communists, who were blamed for sparking the Peruvian hostility, reportedly number less than 3,000 out of 600,000 voters in Ecuador.

Sixth on Visit

Ecuador is the sixth country visited by Nixon in a tight two-week schedule. He enjoyed a relatively looser program today, including a sightseeing tour and a meeting with Ecuadorean business leaders.

The vice president had been scheduled to visit the University of Quito and to talk with labor leaders. The university visit was called off after Nixon was stoned and spat upon in Lima, although some of his aides felt Nixon might still make a surprise call there.

Meeting Called Off

The trade union meeting reportedly was cancelled due to a lack of interest by the generally weak labor movement in Ecuador.

Nixon called on President Camilo Ponce Enriquez shortly after his arrival here. He also met Federico Intriago, minister of economic development, who gave him a list of proposed projects requiring up to three million dollars in U.S. loans or grants.

IAM Observing 70th Anniversary At Party Today

Members of Local 1562, International Association of Machinists at Electrol, Incorporated, 85 Grand Street, were scheduled to hold a business meeting and luncheon today at the Knights of Columbus Home, Broadway and Andrew Street.

The luncheon for members and their families was in observance of the founding of IAM.

Mayor Lauds Group

Mayor Edwin F. Radel, a member of the local, sent a message to Harold L. Longendyke, president, in which he expressed his regrets that other commitments today prevented his attendance at the luncheon meeting.

The mayor's message read:

"My association over the years with IAM, both in Poughkeepsie and with workers at Electrol has shown me the true direction and aims of our fine organization.

"The mention in your letter of an open meeting for the families and friends of members is a vivid indication of the wholesome conditions that exist in our local. It is certainly a tribute and feeling of self-satisfaction in these days when investigating committees and large-scale investigations into union activities have caused unionism in general across our nation to receive a theoretical black eye.

Adds Congratulations

"And all the disturbance can be and has been attributed to an insignificant number of union officials. We are fortunate to belong to and participate in an association which has come through the battles unscathed and which, on this May 10, can proudly celebrate the 70th anniversary of its founding.

"May I add my congratulations to those already recorded on this fine event and convey to my brother members, our officers and to all our families the best wishes for this occasion..

Claim Service Rivalry Threat To Air Defense

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) —Military officers charged with the aerial defense of the North American continent are convinced that lack of unified command and rivalry among service branches are endangering continental safety.

These officers run the North American Air Defense Command, which has the responsibility of protecting the continent from enemy air attack.

NORAD is composed of elements from the U.S. Air Force, Navy and Army, in addition to the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Eyes for SAC

One of its most vital jobs is to act as the eyes for the Strategic Air Command. SAC does not maintain its own warning system and depends on NORAD for information that an enemy attack is threatened. Then the massive retaliatory air arm would go into action.

But NORAD's high officers feel that inter-service rivalry and a lack of authority vested in NORAD commander Gen. Earle E. Partridge seriously jeopardizes the function and mission of the organization. NORAD stands by itself and is attached to no particular branch of the service.

No Consultation

One ranking officer who declined to be identified, said:

"Sure, Gen. Partridge is commander but he can't even hire and fire the field officers assigned to his outfit. They don't even have to tell him what they are doing with their units."

This means, the officer said, that an Army, Navy or Air Force commander in charge of a unit attached to NORAD could reduce the number of weapons, equipment or men without advising or consulting NORAD.

Court Word Awaited

Strike Threatens Canadian Pacific

MONTREAL (AP) — Threatening a nationwide strike, firemen on the Canadian Pacific Railway awaited a decision today on their court effort to delay the line's abolishing some of their jobs.

CPR plans to remove firemen from Diesels in freight and yard service, claiming they are unnecessary. The dispute touched off a firemen's strike 16 months ago and is regarded as a test case for all North American railroads. A second strike is set for Sunday morning. (6 a. m. local time)

The firemen asked Associate Chief Justice W. B. Scott of the Montreal Superior Court to issue an injunction barring the company from removing firemen until the union's contract expires May 31. They claimed the company's plans violate the contract.

After the decision union and management planned to meet with Prime Minister John Diefenbaker at his Ottawa office for another try at working out a permanent settlement.

The 3,000 members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen hoped other unions will refuse to cross their picket lines and halt service on CPR's 17,000 miles of track. Canada's other transcontinental line, the Canadian National Railway, is not affected.

Utica Official

a Common Council meeting the day before.

Such study had been standard procedure. DiGeronimo termed the practice "a courtesy" and said it would not be extended to reporters from the Utica newspapers. He said copies of the ordinances would be furnished to radio and television stations in the Utica area.

Nelson, the comptroller, had refused three ledger sheets to reporters on the ground that inspection of them would disrupt operation of his office.

On Friday, the State Society of Newspaper Editors pledged its support of the Utica papers in breaking up "the vicious subversion of the people's right to know."

Benjamin H. Carroll, editor of The White Plains Reporter-Dispatch and chairman of the society's Right-to-Know Committee accused Nelson in a letter of arbitrary and high-handed denial of access to public records.

Last night, Nelson countered the Carroll's letter was "definitely insolent." He said it was his opinion that the Utica situation did not concern the editors' society.

Nelson did not explain why he changed his mind and decided to allow the reporters to inspect the records.

N. Y. Judge to

Harriman told a news conference he first learned of the move from press reports and directed aides to look into it.

Harriman emphasized that Reuter had made no charges aganst Wicks.

The former Republican leader's' name came up, Harriman said, when Reuter asked a witness whether he made payments to Wicks. The witness took the Fifth Amendment.

Signal of End

On April 25 a story from Albany said a Democratic leader there reportedly advised that the death knell for the Reuter Investigation Commission sounded when Reuter implicated Wicks in an affidavit filed in a Supreme Court proceedings.

It was said a "club" of both Republican and Democratic "old line" senators became incensed by the reference to Wicks, their former colleague, who had served as Senate majority leader and acting lieutenant governor.

At the time the affidavit was filed in New York Supreme Court, March 12, there had been no decision by the Legislature on whether or not to appropriate funds for the operation of Reuter's office during fiscal 1958.

Commission Takes Over

On March 24 at Senate Majority Leader Walter Mahoney's urging, the Senate passed a bill setting up the present four-man commission of investigation. On the last day of the session, the Assembly passed the four-man bill. Reuter's office was given $20,000 to continue work until May 1.

Two days later, March 26, Governor Harriman announced he had met with Mahoney and Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck and had agreed to sign the bill.

A brief ceremony for the cornerstone laying of the new school was scheduled at 3 p. m. by the Saugerties Board of Education. Dr. Morse would not venture to say when the ceremony could be rescheduled.

It had been expected that the new school would be ready for occupancy by all classes seven through 12 on the opening day of the fall semester in September.

Costs $2,500,000

The new structure costs over $2,500,000 and is under contract to I. & O. A. Slutzky, general contractors of Hunter.

The new school building would house 34 to 35 classrooms and accommodate more than 850 students.

Danger Greatest

The resolution for support of President Eisenhower's defense re-organization program said:

"As a nation we no longer can afford any element of risk, however slight, caused by duplication of planning and action and heretofore healthy rivalries between our traditional armed services, Army, Navy and Air Force.

"In this era of push-button atomic and thermonuclear obliteration, the importance of our national defense establishment in relation to survival is more acute than ever before in history."

Knows Problems Best

It pointed out that Eisenhower, as commander-in-chief of all forces of many nations in the World War II triumphant invasion of Nazi-held Europe, is more conversant than any of the national leaders with integration of all military battle power.

The Eisenhower program, it was stressed, is a comprehensive one for increased unity, efficiency and flexibility necessary to give the nation the most effective structure of military protection to deter aggression or attack.

Lottery Aide Out, Helped Others Win

WARSAW (AP) — The deputy director of Poland's state lottery was reported fired today for helping other people win money.

According to the paper Kurier Polski, he and three other lottery officials had published a book called "Eighty Ways To Win."

In fact, the paper said, they knew of 81 ways — they had plagiarized the book from an East German author and pocketed heavy royalties.

Record Surplus Of Wheat Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new record wheat surplus was in prospect today on the basis of an Agriculture Department forecast that this year's winter wheat crop may top last year's by 43 per cent.

The department said a winter wheat yield of 1,010,000,000 bushels appeared likely. Officials said it was possible the combined winter and spring wheat crops could be close to 1¼ billion bushels, which would be the largest since 1953.

Such a crop probably would add at least 250 million bushels to reserve and surplus supplies of 880 million bushels now on hand. This would top the previous record of 1,036,000,000 bushels in 1955.

This would pose new problems for federal farm officials striving to bring about a better balance between supplies and markets. It would add greatly to the governments investment in wheat surpluses, unless new and presently unforeseen markets are found.

From the grower's standpoint, the big crop would boost wheat income greatly over last year despite prospects for lower prices.

The department said the winter wheat crop throughout much of the Great Plains area looked like it might be the best ever.

The agency said prospects are excellent for hay and forage crops as well as for corn, oats, sorghums and soybeans.

A cool April held back farming operations and plant growth over much of the nation, but without decisive effects.

Greene Resorts

and the advertising of Saugerties Thruway exit was first pointed out by Thomas L. Teich, president of Leeds Chamber of Commerce.

At last week's meeting called by Supervisor George L. Cobb of Catskill at the behest of the Catskill and Leeds Chambers of Commerce, the decision was made that Cairo would not appear larger than any other county communities appearing on maps used in the county advertising.

Action was also taken to change the location of the welcome sign in Ulster County at the junctions of Route 32 and 32a near the entrance to Greene County.

New Problems

The problems this week began when Publicity Chairman Arnold Nicholsen received a petition signed by 14 Palenville residents requesting that the Board of Supervisors "definitely and effectively oppose the request made . . . to eliminate mention of Exit 20 of the Thruway in Greene County publicity advertising in metropolitan newspapers. Palenville is on the direct road on Route 32 from the Saugerties Thruway exit.

In a combined meeting last week of the Board of Supervisors' Publicity Committee, Catskill and Leeds Chambers of Commerce and resort representatives it was agreed that neither exit would be stressed in the advertising.

U. S. Officials

mier and Communist party boss may be at stake in the struggle with Yugoslav President Tito.

The prevailing Washington view is that Khrushchev has simply had to realize that the policies he was following several years ago when he tried to restore friendly political relations with Tito have failed. Those policies have failed because Tito has refused to bow to Moscow dictation — as he did before his break with Stalin in 1948—and his successful venture in independent communism has found followers in other Soviet-controlled countries.

How far Khrushchev will find it necessary to go in the present situation is the big question now.

Speculation here is that he may slow down or cut Soviet's program of assistance to Yugoslavia. The aid program, in which other Soviet bloc countries are participating, has an undelivered balance of about 260 million dollars, including an aluminum plant and a nuclear reactor which Tito was promised.

So far the fight has been limited to the ideological arena.

To Be Examined Here

The examination will be made here by two competent mental experts appointed by the hospital superintendent.

District Attorney St. John said at least one of them probably would be a physician from the state hospital.

Should this examination and observation disclose Scott is mentally capable of knowing right from wrong and is aware of the act he committed, he will have to stand trial for murder, first degree, which will result in his paying the death penalty if found guilty. If the examination indicates he does not comprehend the seriousness of his act, he could be sent to an institution for the criminal insane for treatment and when he recovers he would be tried.

From his appearance and actions in court when arraigned, Scott appears to laymen to fully comprehend the seriousness of his act.

Kitchen Color Schemes Helped By Wood Tones

A pleasing color scheme in the kitchen has a good psychological effect on the homemaker and her family, according to a study made by an eastern university.

Rooms with natural wood tones, such as those provided by wood kitchen cabinets and wood wall paneling, needs less sharp color contrasts' than do those with white or light colors, the inquirers found. A light, wood color tends to unify other colors and makes it possible to blend together a larger number.

Large amounts of bright colors, the college experts said, seem to cause fatigue and irritation. Bright or dark colors on the wall make a room seem smaller, light cool colors make a small room look larger.

The amount of natural light coming into the kitchen may influence the choice of warm or cool colors. Light, warm colors reflect more light in the room than dark colors.

Pleasing color accents, the specialist said, can be created through the use of pictures, fabrics, pottery, plants and dinnerware with harmonizing colors and designs.

The important point in color planning the kitchen, it was stressed, is to choose colors and designs that the family likes and enjoys. One color should predominate as the over-all theme with other colors as accents.

How to Save Workshop Space

There are many ways in which you can save space in your workshop. Here are some tips.

DO—remember that, for those who have a minimum amount of home workshop space at their disposal, it is important to assign a storage space to every tool or piece of material.

DO—store all small hardware—nuts, bolts, cotter pins, etc.—in small glass jars, nailing the tops of the jars to the underside of a shelf so that the items are both visible and handy.

DO — use overhead space for the storage of lumber, doing it with ready-made metal suspension racks or wooden ones which you can make yourself.

DO—position tools so that long pieces of wood and other materials can be extended through an open window or door while being cut.

DON'T—forget that, for paint and other self-stored items, you can make excellent use of adjustable shelves, storing items of the same height on each shelf.

DON'T — neglect the advantages of casters on power tool stands, since they enable the machines to be placed against the wall when not in use.

'Jamestown' Planned for Average Family

Rooms	Five
Bedrooms	Three
Closets	Six
Cubage: House	19,400 ft.
Garage	3,900 ft.
Dimensions	41' x 24'

Attractive in its architectural simplicity, "The Jamestown," today's presentation from the Home of the Week Plan Service contains five good-sized rooms that offer plenty of living space for the average modern family.

Measuring 41 by 24 feet, the house proper has a cubage of 19,400 feet. Cubage of the garage is 3900 feet. To build the house and the attached garage you'll need at least an 85-foot lot.

Any type of finish can be used to give "The Jamestown" an appealing exterior appearance; a combination of fieldstone and shingles is suggested in the illustration. A decorative front porchway can be used to dress up the overall appearance of this one-story house.

Largest of the rooms in "The Jamestown" is the 23-feet by 11 feet, four inches living room. The left section of this room is set aside as the dining nook. If you so desire, a built in china closet can be installed in the left front corner of this nook.

There also is a breakfast nook provided in the floor plan of "The Jamestown." Placed in the left front corner of the kitchen, this area is an ideal spot in which to serve lunch as well as breakfast.

Three bedrooms insure ample sleeping space for the family living in the "Jamestown." Good lighting and cross ventilation is featured in each bedroom. The large bedroom closets are certain to win approval, too.

Connecting the house and garage is a 10 by 8 foot porch which can be made into a laundry if you prefer the added convenience of a first floor laundry. If you do decide to use this area for a laundry, doors can be installed in both the front and back walls to provide ready access to both sections of the yard.

If you'd rather keep the connecting porch as it is in the accompanying plan, you can have your laundry equipment installed under the kitchen or bath in the basement of "The Jamestown." The heating plant should be placed under the living room.

Blueprints Available

Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost. Address requests (mentioning name of home) to Home of the Week, Inc. Dept. KF, 87 Weybosset Street, Providence, R. I.

It's Special Paint

An enamel is sometimes described as "a special kind of paint which flows out to a smooth coat when applied and dries to a smooth, relatively hard solid when exposed in a thin film to the air." An enamel awlays contains pigment and has considerable hiding power and color. Some enamels dry to a flat or eggshell finish instead of a gloss finish.

Fixing Gutter Leaks

Leaks in wood gutters due to cracks or at the joints can be fixed by packing the opening with caulking compound. If the opening is very wide, pack first with oakum and then cover this with caulking compound.

Don't Paint Ladder

Wooden ladders should be protected with occasional applications of a clear varnish or penetrating sealer to keep them in good condition. Never use opaque paints, however, since these may hide splits or other dangerous defects.

Covering Old Walls

Plastic wall coverings may be installed over old walls to cover gouges and nicks. The coverings are resistant to moisture, grease, heat, wear and marring, and need only wiping and a sudsy cloth or sponge to keep clean.

Remove Spatters

When you're painting, it's wise to clean up spatters as you go along. For water-base paint, use a cloth moistened with water. If you're working with oil-base coating material, use a cloth dampened with turpentine or mineral spirits.

Dent Marks

To keep metal-tipped furniture legs from making dent marks on linoleum or carpeted floors; glue a cork disc from the inside of a soft drink bottle cap to each leg.

Picture Frames

Gilt picture and mirror frames can be cleaned with water in which onions have been boiled. Not only does this clean, but prevents fly markings.

Hard or Soft Wood

Hardwoods generally come from trees that have broad leaves. Most softwoods come from evergreens.

Label Paint Cans, Make Job Easier

When you have finished painting do you make sure that all remaining paint is stored in an air-tight container and clearly marked?

Put on a lable telling where you used it, whether it is a mixture of one or more tinting colors and, if so, how much of each color was used. This information will be useful when you need a touch-up job or when you want to use the same color in another part of the house.

Paint Economy

Before you purchase paint, measure the area to be painted and get the number of square feet. Use this figure to determine the exact amount of paint required. You'll be suprised at how much money you can save in a year by not buying far more paint than required or by not buying too little the first time and having to go back to the store for more.

Painting Radiators

A radiator finished in oil paint will radiate from 10 to 15 per cent more heat than one finished with metallic paint. It's best to use thin coats of paint and allow plenty of drying time between coats. The first coat should be in flat paint or sealer and the second coat in flat paint or enamel.

Don't Use Oil

Don't try to thicken paint that has been thinned too much by adding linseed oil as too much oil will prevent the paint from drying as it should. Also, don't try to make an exterior paint out of an interior paint by adding linseed oil—it doesn't work.

Wallpaper Tip

In most cases, sizing a wall before applying wallpaper is not necessary if the wall has paint on it. But bare plaster walls or any other unfinished surfaces require sizing before putting on the wallpaper.

When Paint Blisters

Don't blame the paint when you see blisters or peeling. These conditions are usually due to moisture within or upon the surface of the material to which the paint was applied. Keeping your house properly ventilated will help to avoid such damage.

New Tile Concept

A "new concept in asphalt tile styling" is supposed to provide the textured, three-dimensional look of wall-to-wall carpeting.

Check Tile Work In Stocking Feet

Your stocking feet can come in very handy when laying asphalt or vinyl asbestos tile on a concrete basement floor. No concrete slab can be precision flat. After floor tile is laid, you can detect every slight unevenness of the underyling concrete by feeling the edges of adjoining tiles. Where the surfaces of two tiles are not completely level, stand on the highest tile in your stocking feet and the warmth of your feet will soften the tile just enough to cause it to go down without cracking.

Professionals, when they lay asphalt or vinyl asbestos tile, eliminate such rough joints by going over the floor with their hands and a blow torch. But when you install your own floor covering you can perfect the job by making a game out of it in your stocking feet.

Jury Probe Is To Continue in Death of Girl, 7

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—The grand jury investigation in the case of the Dooling sisters is scheduled to resume Monday.

A recess in the study of possible first-degree manslaughter charges in the death of seven-year-old Sheila Dooling was called Friday.

Erie County Dist. Atty. John Dwyer indicated when he announced the recess that he needed more time. He did not elaborate.

The case involves Sheila, who officials say died of malnutrition, her sister, Helen, and members of the family that adopted them both.

Sheila's body was found a week ago at the home of her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Dooling.

Helen, 9, was located Thursday in a room occupied by a 34-year-old daughter of the Doolings.

Officials say Helen, like Sheila, was underfed and bruised.

The two girls are the daughters by a previous marriage of Mrs. June Dooling, wife of the elder Doolings' son, Kenneth.

American Schools Are Turning Out New Type Cantor

By TOM HENSHAW

NEW YORK (AP)—A new type of cantor is beginning to make his presence felt in the more than 4,000 synagogues of American Jewry.

He still meets the age-old requirements of the Talmud. He has a "sweet voice." He is scholarly, pious and humble and modest.

But, more and more, he's being trained in American cantorial schools.

And, more and more, he's becoming the musical personality of his congregation in addition to his role as a central official of worship.

In High Demand

Three American schools, all in New York City, are turning out cantors, whose services are in high demand in the present boom in synagogue building in the suburbs.

The College-Institute School of Sacred Music has been training cantors since 1948. Its eighth graduating class next month will bring the number of American-trained cantors to 75.

The Jewish Theological Seminary started its Cantorial Institute five years ago and Yeshiva University's Cantorial Training Institute joined the ranks in 1954.

Many cantors have a mild aversion to the name cantor. They prefer the Hebrew "hazzan."

"The word cantor has too much the connotation of just a singer or an entertainer," says Hazzan David J. Putterman, of the Park Avenue Synagogue in New York.

More Than Singer

The cantor is much more than a singer. He may entertain but he is not an entertainer. His part in the Jewish service is as important as that of the rabbi.

"The rabbi is the teacher," says Putterman. "The cantor is the emissary of the people; he's the intermediary between the congregation and God."

The cantor actually conducts the worship service. He sings the prayer book. His song interprets the mood of the occasion. Interpretation is as important as voice.

"A cantor," says Hazzan Putterman, "should know the meaning and context of the prayers so well that a stranger to the synagogue could feel what is happening by the cantor's interpretation.

"Voice is important but there have been great cantors who have had limited voices. Their greatness lay in the fact that their interpretations inspired their congregations."

WHEN THE CHECK HAS BEEN PAID

Dear Mrs. Post: The other day I met a friend for lunch and when it came time to pay the check, she said, "It's' been taken care of.'" As she had not invited me to lunch, I saw no reason why she should pay for me so I took the price of my lunch out of my purse and put it beside her plate saying that it was my share of the bill. She said, "Oh, all right if you insist'" and took the money but she seemed rather annoyed. Will you please tell me if I was wrong to do this, or should I have said, "Thank you" and let it go at that?

Answer: Under the circumstances you describe, you should have thanked her for lunch and added that the next time you lunch together she must, of course, be your guest.

Welcoming a New Bride

Dear Mrs. Post: A popular bachelor in our town recently married a young woman from another part of the country. They will live in this city when they return from their honeymoon. We received an announcement from the bride's parents. Enclosed with the announcement was an At Home card. Is this an invitation to call on the bride? The bride is a total stranger to me.

Answer: Why don't you telephone to the groom saying that you would like to meet his bride and ask him when would be the most convenient time for you to call on her?

May a Girl Telephone a Boy?

Dear Mrs. Post: My mother seems to think it is not proper to call a boy friend on the telephone. She insists that girls who call boys give the impression they are running after them. Isn't it proper for a girl to call a boy on the telephone?

Answer: It would be proper for a girl to call a boy if she has a message to give him or something of importance to ask him. But I don't think she should call him just to have idle conversation — unless she knows him very well and he frequently calls her.

Junior League to Present Children's Theater In Kingston on May 17 for Area Students

A wonderful day awaits the children in the Kingston area at 2 p. m. on May 17 when the Junior League brings The Pocket Players, a professional children's theatre group, from New York to present two gay comic plays in the Kingston High School Auditorium.

"The Tale of the Donkey" is a comedy in vaudeville style adapted from Aesops fable, "The Miller, his Son, and the Ass." In the spirit of Commedia Dell' Arte from which vaudeville has its roots, we behold a little proscenium on stage with lighted theatre bulbs and colorful curtains. The characters are; Harlequin or in modern terms, an egotistical and prankish Actor; Ma, a lovable but foolish country bumpkin; her son, a lad cut from the same cloth, and Mercedes, a donkey. With real live music, piano and percussion in honky-tonk style, the characters rave through traditional slapstick fun, and end up with a hard earned moral.

The second play, "The Master of all Masters" is an ideal little play to satisfy the natural need in children to invent nonsense names for common every day objects. The two characters in the play, the Masters of all Masters, and a servant girl fresh from the English countryside bring this tale to a hilarious conclusion when the cat or "White Faced Siminy" gets a spark of "Hot Cockalorum" or fire on her tail and the house or "White Topper Mountain" is in danger of being all on "hot cockalorum." All ends happily for this play of words is no more profound than an innocent romp with nonsense.

Letters have been sent to the parents of the parochial and public school children advising them of the play which is being shown for a nominal sum. Tickets may be purchased from junior league members who will be in the schools on May 12, 13 and 14 or at the Junior League Exchange, 45 Crown Street.

Artie Gribbins' Double Scores Winning Run; Jim Rose Yields 3-Hits

By TONY CORAPI
Freeman Sports Staff

Artie Gribbins, Onteora Central's crackerjack athlete, has had many pleasant moments during his two years at Boiceville but probably one of his most satisfactory accomplishments was an eighth-inning double which drove in the winning run to defeat Wallkill Central and give the Indians undisputed possession of first place in the UCAL.

In the sixth frame, Artie went into the hole in left center to grab Joe Rodriquez's liner on a fine backhanded catch. It was a sure double and possibly a triple. It could have been really troublesome since the next two batters walked.

Rose in Form

Aside from Gribbins' fine performance, Jim Rose was superb. He gave up only three hits to the hard-hitting Wallkill nine and snuffed out several potential rallies in the late frames with excellent clutch pitching.

His shutout bid went by the boards in the first inning when one of Bruce Gordon's bullet pegs failed to find the mark at third, enabling Don Evans to score.

The Indians found Henry Hecht not too difficult. The lanky southpaw, who had been whittling down all opposition, was touched for six safeties. But he fanned only four. He was in trouble every inning except the fourth, but always managed to get out of the jam.

Errors Costly

Errors by second sacker Tom Riley put him in a hole three times, in fact one miscue of Dick Bartsch's grounder which would have been the third out, set the stage for Gribbins' game winning double.

Coach Tom Wheeler's squad had several opportunities to increase its margin, but each time hitters failed in the clutch.

Terry Grant socked out two of the safeties off Hecht, the last one set up the winning run after Rose had opened the inning by grounding out, short to first. Bruce Wiederspiel hit a pop to the shortstop and Bartsch got a life on Riley's miscue, his fourth of the game.

Poor Base Running

Gribbins worked Hecht for a two-two count and then lined the next pitch into right field, scoring Grant. Bartsch should have scored on the play, but concentrated on watching the outfielder retrieve the ball instead, and died at third. Gordon was thrown out on a nice play by shortstop Gene Bilbao. The latter played a bang up game in the shortfield, coming up with nine assists.

Poksie Trims NFA, 10-3 for 18th Straight

Poughkeepsie High School boosted its consecutive game win mark to 18 yesterday with a 10-3 win over Newburgh Free Academy at Riverview Field there.

Coach Sam Kalloch's squad iced things up in the first frame with a four-run rally off Paul Schnitt, who was jerked in the sixth after he had been reached for nine tallies.

Joe Molinaro pitched six scoreless innings, but was solved for a pair of runs in the seventh. Jim Tyrell allowed the third run.

Molinaro fanned 13, walked four and gave up four of the five hits. Deke Johnson went 4-for-4.

Gardner Goes Distance for 2nd DUSO Win

Kingston High scored six runs in the first two innings yesterday and went on to defeat Middletown High 7-2, in a DUSO contest in Orange County. It was the team's second league win against two losses and an overall record of 3-3.

The Maroons got some airtight pitching from Paul Gardner and some excellent defensive action from Frankie Sammons which cut off two Middies.

Twice, Sammons cut down runners, which got Gardner out of jams. A timely double by Sammons in the opening frame brought in Chick Boice and Dave O'Connor who had reached base on successive hits.

Almost a duplication of hits in the following frame by the same players accounted for the other three runs for the Maroons. Krueger drove in a pair of runs with two hits.

The Middies gave Gardner his only real trouble in the third inning when they scored twice, on Dick Lundgren's triple.

Dick Clarke started but was relieved in the third inning. Tom Slover finished up and was nicked for a run in the seventh inning.

Gardner fanned five and gave up three bases on balls.

First UCAL Triumph

Skillen's Home Run Sparks Rondout Valley, 8-7 Win

A six-run inning enabled Rondout Valley to edge Highland yesterday on the latter's field for its first UCAL victory, 8-7.

A towering homer by Jerry Skillen highlighted the fourth frame which saw Rondout score all the runs on one blow. Two errors and two free passes and a fielder's choice were good for three runs. Skillen then boomed his circuit with two mates aboard off Phil Bezzaro who relieved Dave Burdash in the fifth frame.

Up until then Bezzaro was going along nicely on a 5-2 cushion. He set 13 down on strikes, but he was plagued by a streak of wildness which constantly kept him in trouble.

Burdash, Coach Bob Relyea's ace hurler, was shelled in the first frame, on a two-run outburst.

Vic D'Alessio started for Rondout and gave way to Harry Purcell in the fifth, who came through with a good relief stint to preserve the victory.

'Sweet Sweeps' May 12-18 at Ferraro's Lanes

So often women have been heard on local alleys raving about that wonderful cake they baked or those elegant cookies which were made to order for hubby's palate.

Well, now the outsiders will have an opportunity to sample some of those delectable pastries as the Kingston Woman's Bowling Assn. will conduct a weeklong cake sale starting Monday at Ferraro's Bowlerama.

Proceeds of this effort will help finance the group's promotion toward bringing the state tournament and convention to Kingston in 1960.

This is a step in that direction and all persons interested in the promotion of the game can help by patronizing the sale which concludes Sunday.

Walter Rupp Inc. Community Champs

Walter Rupp Inc. finished nine games in front of Eleven Main to cop the Community Bowling League crown. Smith Parish Roofing Co. was third.

In the finale last night, Eleven Main took two from the champions; Red McDermott's Tavern 2, Babcock's Dairy 1; Light's Radio-TV Service 2, Sickler's Delivery 1; Smith Parish 3, Byrne Chevrolet 0.

Workouts are slated for new players in the Glasco-East Kingston Little League Monday and Tuesday. The recruits will go through drills at Glasco on Monday and the following evening at East Kingston. Auction of players will be conducted Wednesday at the Glasco Athletic Club.

Movies Help Mays, Smacks In L.A. Rout

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Movies paid off for Willie Mays as he took a look at his batting stance on film, then went out and slugged his San Francisco Giants into second place in the National League.

Willie's two home runs and a double Friday night drove in five runs in the Giants 11-3 slaughter of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The victory, before a crowd of 20,653 and a Los Angeles television audience, put the Giants just one-half game behind Milwaukee. The Braves are 13-7, the Giants 14-9.

Center fielder Willie denied the films had anything to do with his power hitting. "I'm just swinging the same as always," he said. "I didn't notice any change."

But Manager Bill Rigney did. He had the movies taken because Mays, although hitting a healthy .372, had collected only one home run and drove in but nine runs in 19 games. Mays was getting singles, some cheapies directly attributed to his great speed.

"The movies made the difference," Rigney said. He declared Mays had a hitch in his swing that the films revealed. They also showed, Rigney said, that Willie was holding the bat too close to his body.

Kingston Thinclads Lose To Middletown 57⅓-46⅔

A poor effort in the field events was a contributing factor to Kingston High's defeat to Middletown in track yesterday afternoon at Dietz Stadium. The score was 57⅓ to 46⅔.

Up until the field results started to come in the Maroons held a slight margin, but its failure to impress in the shot, broad jump and pole vault events, cost the Kiasmen their first loss of the season.

The locals didn't fair too well in the 100 yard dash which went to Dick Cohen of Middletown. He was clocked in 10.6. Kingston placced third, a surprise since Baron had better time in practice runs. He finished third.

"Muscles" Zoldan who had cracked a Middies mark with a heave of nearly 50 feet in the shot two weeks ago, just did beat out Paul Amann, a teammate, with a throw of 45 feet 9 inches. Marv Engel finished third with 45 feet three inches.

Children are what their mothers are. No father's fondest care can so fashion the child's heart or so shape its life.—Landor.

Lest You Forget

Remember all those little things mother did for you? Little things that mothers always seem to do. Like taking some discarded toy and putting it away, for well she knows you'll ask for it, again some other day. Then at night she'd kiss you and your prayers were said, if you had some terrible dream she'd take you in her bed. That's why I guess when children seem inclined to roam, they're mighty glad mother has one day of her own. One day of all the year, more precious than the rest—a day when we should honor the one that loves us best. And if perhaps you've slighted her as you went on your way, be thankful that it's not too late—you still have Mother's Day.

Mother's Day Origin

Do you know the story of how Mother's Day came to be celebrated in the United States? In the beginning of this century a Miss Anna Jarvis, of Philadelphia, wishing to honor the memory of her own mother, decided it would be a wonderful idea to observe one day in each year to honor mothers everywhere.

Miss Jarvis worked for many years to have such a day established. Finally President Wilson signed a resolution passed by Congress, ordering that the second Sunday in May be observed as Mother's Day. Mother's Day has since been a legal holiday in this nation on that date.

150 New Parking Meters Operating In Business Area

Installation of 150 new parking meters in the main business section of the Village of Saugerties was completed today.

Parking fees for the new equipment will be the same as the old parking meters—one cent for 12 minutes and five cents for an hour. The new meters will also take a dime for an hour's parking if the motorist does not have the exact change.

Bert Kemp, engineer for Magee Hale Park-o-Meter Co., demonstrated the operation of the mechanism of the new meters to Police Chief Arthur H. Richter and Sgt. Harold Mills.

The free parking policy for both municipal parking lots will continue.

Installation of new parking meters is not a budget item and will not add to the village taxpayers burden. The meters are paid for through an arrangement with the manufacturer. According to the contract, the manufacturer and the village divide the proceeds derived from the meters on a 50-50 basis until the meters are fully paid.

Oppose Move to Form Dairymen Into TU

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—Representatives of 12 agricultural groups in the New York-New Jersey-Pennsylvania area are opposing a move to organize dairymen nationally in the Teamsters Union.

Meeting here Friday, they issued a statement that said:

"We believe that both farm cooperatives and labor unions are legally and morally obliged to engage only in activities within the defined scope of their respective organizations.

"To bargain collectively for the price of farm production is the exclusive and inherent responsibility of farm cooperatives. To bargain collectively for wages, hours and working conditions is the exclusive and inherent responsibility of labor unions."

Groups represented at the all-day conference included the Dairymen's League Cooperative Assn., Eastern Milk Producers, Metropolitan Cooperative Milk Producers Bargaining Agency, and the Mutual Federation of Independent Cooperatives.

Kletske Named

Herbert Kletske was named executive secretary of the Senate Parking Inc., rather than his wife, Helen, mentioned in a previous announcement. The corporation was formed to provide additional parking facilities for Kingston shoppers.

About 70 per cent of the salt production of the United States is for the chemical industry.

Sunshine Warms Most of Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sunshine warmed most of the nation today.

A few isolated storm clouds darkened the predominantly skyblue scene, but generally the day was a fair and mild opener to another May weekend.

May Crest Today

In Catlettsburg, Ky., where the flood-swollen Big Sandy and Ohio rivers forced some 300 families from their homes, the respite from rain signaled the start of a city clean-up. Tons of mud and silt were left behind when the high water began receding after nightfall Friday.

The Ohio, already out of its lower banks, is expected to crest today at Cincinnati.

It was warm over much of the Mississippi and Ohio valleys, but cool Canadian air drifted into the upper Great Lakes region, dropping temperatures below Friday's levels.

Temperatures Dip

Cooler readings also prevailed in parts of the Pacific Northwest, due largely to scattered thunderstorms. Temperatures also took a dip in the Dakotas and New England.

Parts of Southern California and the Rockies got some rain and a showery belt stretched from Texas and Oklahoma eastward across the Gulf states to the Carolina coast. Scattered showers also were likely in parts of the Great Lakes region.

Desi Arnaz Gives $30,000 to Help Retarded Children

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television tycoon Desi Arnaz donated $30,000 Friday night to pace a $100,000 fund-raising for Share, Inc., a Hollywood charity that helps mentally retarded children.

Every star who could command a western outfit turned out for the group's annual boom town party at the Cocoanut Grove.

Stripper Gives All

Gypsy Rose Lee gave her all for charity. The famous stripteaser paraded on the runway, tossing a glove there and a dress here to earn $7,850 for the fund.

Dean Martin was the emcee during the striptease but turned over the chore to Milton Berle when Mrs. Jeanne Martin successfully bid $2,500 for Gypsy's mink stole.

Berle turned the gavel back to Martin when Mrs. Berle successfully bid $2,500 for an outboard motor.

The entertainment, all free for Share, was of the type that money couldn't buy. Here are some of those who entertained:

Fisher Buys

Texas oil man Ray Ryan donated a Palm Springs lot and then offered to build a house on it free when Eddie Fisher bought it for $9,000.

That was the top single bid until Arnaz offered $30,000 to Share if Mitchum would work for minimum scale ($200) on a Desilu TV Playhouse next season. Mitchum agreed.

Documents Are Lost In Illinois Blaze

GALESBURG, Ill. (AP)—A wealth of Illinois historical documents, some papers signed by Abraham Lincoln among them, was lost Friday night in a fire that destroyed the Galesburg Public Library.

Loss of the 57-year-old building and the 122,000 volumes it housed was estimated at one million dollars.

Failure of two of the city's five water wells hampered efforts to quell the blaze. Firemen were able to play only a single hose on flames licking upward to the second floor where the Lincoln papers and other historical items were stored in a vault.

"From what I can see, the vault is gone," City Manager Raymond Barbaugh said after viewing the smoldering ruin.

The library was located north of Knox College near the scene of one of the Lincoln-Douglas debates.

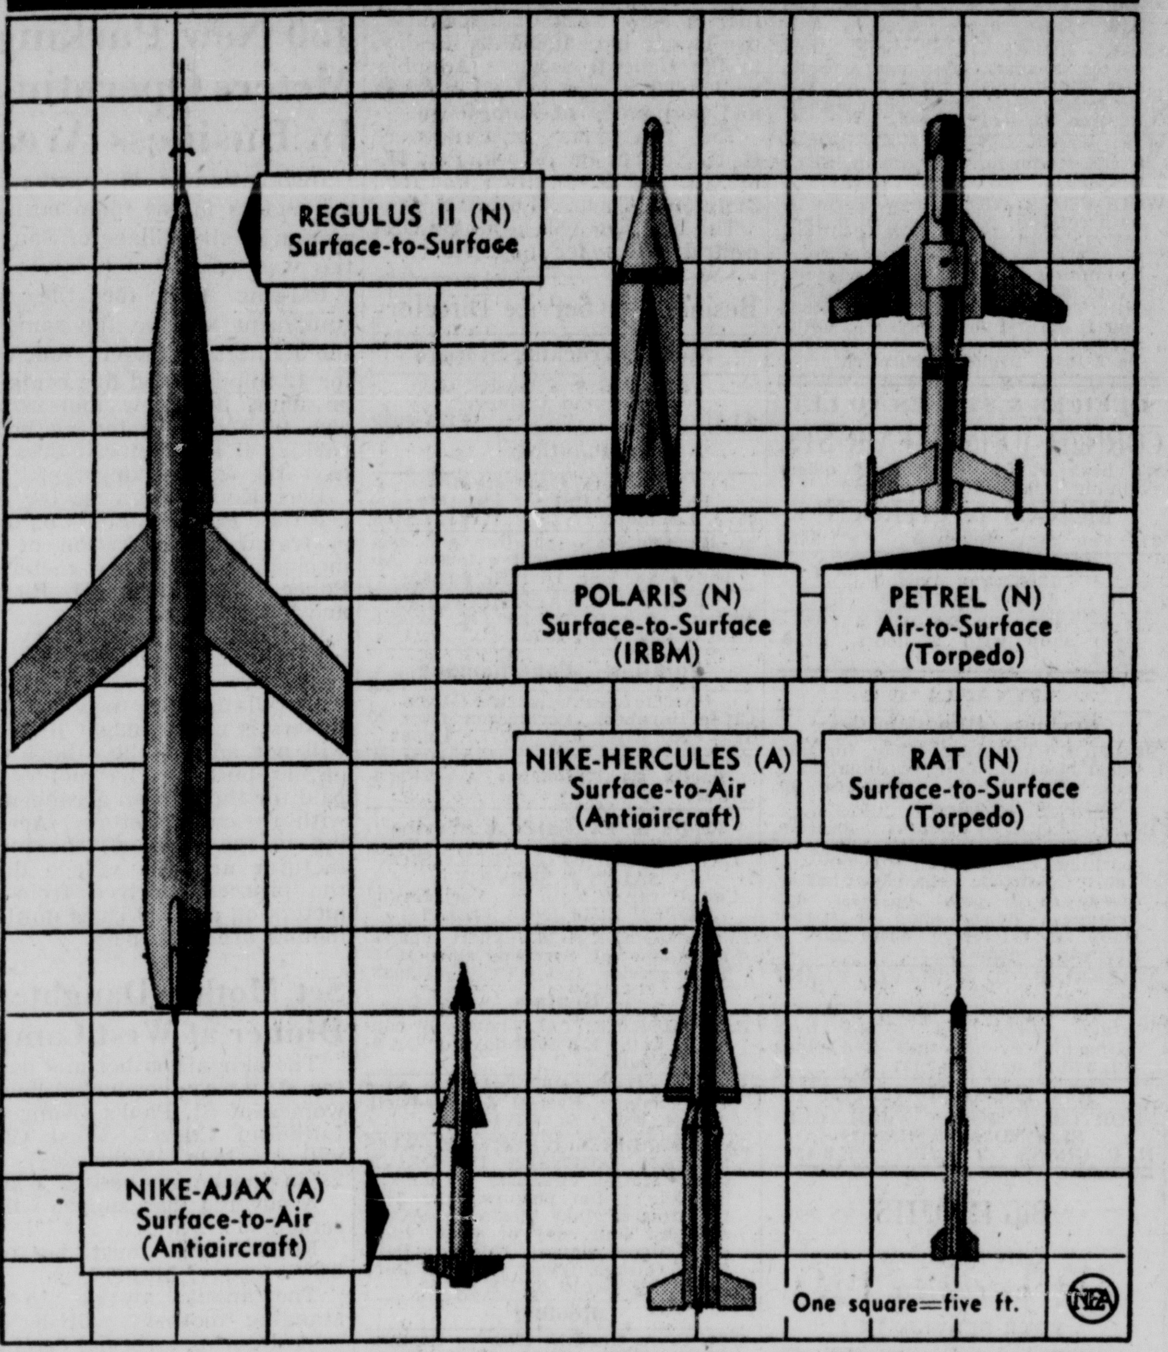
KNOW YOUR MISSILES—3



Missile punch of the modern Navy is shown in chart above. Regulus II is bigger, faster version of Regulus I (now currently in use) and is expected to replace it early in 1959. The first of seven subs to carry two Regulus IIs each was recently commissioned. Polaris is a solid fuel intermediate range missile (1,500-mile) to be launched from submerged submarines. Operational by 1960, a full test is scheduled for late 1959. Petrel and RAT (rocket-assisted torpedo) are operational with fleet units. Two Army missiles are also shown: Nike-Ajax is familiar antiaircraft weapon stationed around America's cities—about 245 installations have been built. Nike-Hercules, improved version, is in production, will replace Ajax beginning this year.

Wagner Admits Having Gerosa's Realtor Report

NEW YORK (AP)—Robert F. Wagner says he had the controversial Gerosa reports on the city real estate bureau "for some time" before reading them.

Wagner added on Friday: "I just didn't have an opportunity to analyze them thoroughly."

At a news conference the mayor repeated his charge that it was up to Comptroller Lawrence E. Gerosa to see that his recommendations were carried out.

Last Wednesday, Gerosa released the reports he and Wagner had kept secret for two years. Gerosa said his department had caught and disallowed $200,000 in over charges approved by bureau officials.

Wagner said yesterday that after reading the reports he sent them to Charles F. Preusse, city administrator.

Preusse, who was making a study for reorganization of the bureau, recently criticized the bureau for "slipshod" management but did not go into any extensive discussion of overcharges.

Kingston JV's Rip Saugerties In Baseball, 9-3

Kingston High's junior varsity baseballers drubbed Saugerties yesterday 9-3 at the Athletic Field. Jim Murphy went the distance for the victory while the hitting attack was sparked by Len Sickler's triple and single.

Sickler cleared the sacks in the third inning with his three-bagger. Murphy fanned 11 and gave up four singles.

To Control Speed And Recklessness On Inland Waters

Navigation inspectors of State Department of Public Works and the U. S. Coast Guard will combine efforts to control recklessness and other illegal uses of pleasure boats in area inland waters, it was announced today.

Inspectors from the Division of Canals and Waterways will be patrolling both Rondout Creek in the Kingston area and Esopus Creek in the Saugerties vicinity to cut down reported speeding and recklessness of pleasure boats.

The law requires that mechanically propelled pleasure vessels operated on waters within the boundaries of New York State shall be registered and display a state identification number.

Application blanks for identification numbers may be obtained from local area marine dealers or by writing direct to the Division of Canals and Waterways, 256 Washington Avenue, Albany, 1. The registration fee is $1 which is good for the lifetime of the vessel.

Boats displaying U. S. Coast Guard registration numbers, and transient vessels which operate on New York State waters for less than 10 days in a calendar year need not obtain a state identification number.

The identification number assigned shall be painted on or attached to each side of the bow. Figures and letters must be block letters, three inches in height of contrasting color to the boat, and maintained in a legible condition so as to be readily discernible during daylight hours at a distance of 100 feet.

Failure to register boats as required by law is punishable by a fine not to exceed $50.

Starkweather Is Going to Stand In Murder Trial

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) —Charles Starkweather will take the stand next week in his murder trial.

And his defense counsel T. Clement Gaughan, says "we don't know what he will say."

The 19-year-old former garbage collector has admitted involvement in 11 slayings last January in Nebraska and Wyoming.

Faces Chair or Life

He faces the electric chair or life imprisonment for the shooting of Robert Jensen, 17, of Bennet, Neb.

Gaughan told the jury the act was committed while Starkweather was suffering from delusions. He entered a plea of innocent by reason of insanity and Starkweather showed annoyance when counsel referred to delusions and subnormal intelligence. But he remained silent.

The defense attorney said Charles contends he shot Jensen, killed by six bullets in the back of the head, when Jensen launched an attack. Gaughan indicated he will attempt to get Starkweather to tell that story from the stand. It would, he told the jury, be proof of insanity.

Due About Midweek

Starkweather's testimony is expected around midweek. It will follow introduction by the county attorney of parts of Charles' signed confessions. Court is recessed over the weekend.

Old Forge Gets Two-Inch Snow

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Two inches of snow fell overnight in the Old Forge area, and the whole state shivered today in the wintriest May in years.

Plattsburgh reported snow flurries and a trace on the ground. There were a few light flurries in Western New York.

Farmers were checking crops to determine whether there was any frost damage.

The Weather Bureau said the weekend would be generally fair and cool.

Olean recorded an overnight low of 25 degrees. It was 27 at Elmira and 28 at Albany, Binghamton and Massena. Buffalo reported a low of 32 and Syracuse 33. It was 42.9 in New York City.

The reading at Albany broke the record for the date—30 degrees in 1902. The Weather Bureau said it was the lowest temperature ever recorded in Albany so late in the season.

Corning's game at Olean in the NYP Baseball League was postponed because of the cold.

Helps Farm Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department said today off-farm unemployment is helping provide an ample supply of farm workers except in some local areas in the North and East.

In the latter areas, few unemployed industrial workers were said to be interested in working on farms. As a consequence, some local farm labor shortages were reported during the spring season.

ELMIRA, N. Y. (AP)—Charles J. O'Connell, 67, retired Elmira postmaster, died today after a long illness.

Wage-Price Moratorium Is Favored

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—Some business leaders have told Secretary of Commerce Weeks of faint signs that April may have brought a turning point in the recession for several key industries.

But optimism was far from unanimous among the 100 top rung corporation executives meeting here as the commerce secretary's Business Advisory Council.

And the business leaders did not agree on whether the government should stand pat on taxes or ask Congress to cut income tax rates as a booster for business.

A special seven-member anti-recession committee of the BAC, named in April at Weeks' request to recommend a prescription for recovery, came up Friday with a report proposing:

1. That President Eisenhower call on industry and labor for a voluntary, one year moratorium on both wage boosts and price increases.

2. That no tax reduction be asked now, but that "if the decline in general consumption continues," a flat percentage cut be made in all personal income tax rates.

The moratorium idea provoked no discussion. But the tax recommendation touched off debate that revealed a split. Some members called for a quick 10 per cent, seven billion dollar tax cut. Others protested that tax reduction was unnecessary, that it would be inflationary and damaging to the federal fiscal structure.

Weeks told newsmen he would ask the committee — headed by T. V. Houser, board chairman of Sears Roebuck and Co. — to keep working and report back in June because, Weeks said, "By June 30 there will have to be some kind of tax bill."

On that date, unless there is extension legislation, the corporation tax rate will drop to 47 per cent from 52 per cent, and some excise rates will be reduced automatically.

Reporters were barred from the BAC sessions.

Phone Expansion Has 18 Million Against Recession

The New York Telephone Company is doing its share to offset the recession in its recently established eastern area by going "full steam ahead" with a $18,000,000 construction program, Russell W. Scofield, area general manager, announced today. "The program together with rearrangements of work assignments throughout the area has practically eliminated layoffs of telephone people," he said.

"In fact to date some 125 employes in the eastern area who otherwise might have been laid off are still on the company payroll."

"We are going forward with this construction because we know our customers want the better service it will bring and because we have fundamental confidence in the economic future of the area," Scofield said.

The eastern area includes Albany, Schenectady, Troy, Kingston, Poughkeepsie, Newburgh and other Hudson Valley communities.

For Modern Equipment

The construction money will be spent to replace present facilities with more modern equipment to convert more telephones from manual to dial operation and to further increase direct dialing of long distance calls by customers.

Reviewing the Company's growth and level of operation in recent months, Scofield pointed out that the rate of telephone expansion in the eastern area had slowed somewhat as a result of the recession but he said, "we are still growing and gaining customers and all the available evidence points to overall business growth and prosperity in the years ahead.

"We hope there will be no layoffs or serious dislocations in our general program through the balance of the year. This will, of course, depend upon future business volume, costs of operation and our ability to raise the required new capital," he said.

As another concrete means for combating the effects of the recession, Scofield reported a substantial increase in company sales activities since the first of the year through sales of extra service to homes and businesses.

No Cause Verdict Is Returned in Publisher's Death

A no cause verdict was returned late Friday afternoon in the $50,000 negligence action brought in Supreme Court by Laura LeFever, widow of James I. LeFever, who for many years published the New Paltz Independent.

Mrs. LeFever brought action against Alfred C. Thielman Jr., for the death of her husband who was fatally injured in December 1956 on Main Street, New Paltz.

Mr. LeFever, 77, died three days after the accident and action was brought for the death and also for the pain and suffering of deceased.

In charging the jury Justice Harry E. Schirick instructed the jurors to bring in two separate amounts, in the event they found for plaintiff, one of the wrongful death and for the pain and suffering of deceased.

The unanimous verdict of the jury held that both Mr. LeFever and the defendant, Alfred C. Thielman Jr., were guilty of contributory negligence. Harp and Hafke, with N. LeVan Haver of counsel, appeared for plaintiff and Andrew J. Cook Jr., appeared for defendant.

Broad Styling Changes Will Mark 1959 Edition of Autos

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Auto Editor

DETROIT (AP) — The 1959 autos, which may reach the market somewhat earlier than usual this year, will have broad styling changes; engineering changes will not be of major proportions.

Larger Windows

This is indicated in commitments made to suppliers of major subassemblies and parts. There will be larger windshields and rear windows.

There will be more body changes. Some cars will be longer. Barring unexpected changes in planning, the only new shorter length car to appear will be Studebaker-Packard's projected new low price car.

American Motors, only auto maker to sell more cars this year than in comparable 1957, will continue its 108-inch and 100-inch wheelbase Rambler models. It has a 85-inch wheelbase model in its imported Metropolitan.

What 1959 price tags will show is anybody's guess. It has been said the car makers would try to avoid price advances. But they already have served notice higher wages will mean increased prices.

When Edward T. Ragsdale, Buick general manager, made that statement in a Boston address a few weeks ago, it was accepted he was speaking on behalf of the entire General Motors group. If GM advances prices, the remainder of the industry probably will also increase them.

Higher prices may have been a factor in the tightening up of consumer demand. But economic uncertainty probably is the major factor. Some analysts have said dissatisfaction with 1958 model cars also was a consideration.

Industry spokesmen assert that the surge in small car sales had its beginning in a period of high prosperity and full employment; that demand for them did not leap forward with the appearance of the recession.

Litte Rock, Ark. (AP)—While attending a business convention here with her husband, Mrs. Joe Miller of Harrison, Ak., bought a mink stole. Then she went to a style show for wives of convention delegates and won a prize in a drawing. What kind of a prize? A mink stole.
